

Dear Tiara,

Letter To The Church In Tiaraoluwa's Heart

Calvary greetings, most beautiful maiden on this esteemed occasion...

I'm sure you know a lot about how the writing process, but this most definitely isn't a one take letter (I am confidently saying this on my first take 😊)

But really... If I had a thousand takes, I'll take them all... And they'll all be completely different, because there's no right way to express my thoughts towards you.

Happy Birthday, Tolulope Ogunnubi (this was how you first officially introduced yourself to me 😊).

A Happy birthday is less than the least you deserve, considering 'who' and 'what' you are...

If I could choose a person to never not be happy, I would choose you before myself.

So scratch what I said earlier... I don't wish you a happy Birthday —I wish every single day of the rest of your life is a happy one. I wish you joy, laughter and peace... And I'm not wishing out of goodwill or obligation, but simply because—it's the least you deserve.

Happy Everyday, Oyindamola ❤️🔥✝️

Yours' Truly,

'The one who loves you'
